Claims 1, 10-12, 20-21, 29, 34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Zicker (US 5,995,833).

Regarding claim 1, Zicker discloses a base station apparatus for communicating with a specific base station and at least one terminal that is movable relative to the specific base station, wherein the base station apparatus (see figure 2, and col. 4 line 49 to col. 5 line 5) is movable relative to the specific base station (the land station 24 or ground station 36 are fixed on the ground, see figure 1), and when the at least one terminal has moved relative to the specific base station, the base station apparatus moves relative to the specific base station substantially in the same direction as a move direction of the at least one terminal.

Regarding claim 10, Zicker discloses base station apparatus is installed in transporting means for transporting a user of a terminal (the base stations are located on an aircraft 20, see figure 2 and col. 4 line 49 to col. 5 line 5).

Art Unit: 2661

Regarding claim 12, Zicker discloses a communication system comprising:

a terminal that is movable relative to the specific base station (on of the plurality of radiophones on the aircraft 20, see figure 2) ; and a base station apparatus (A-side cellsite 33 or B-side cellsite 35 on the air craft 20, see figures 1 and 2) for communicating with the specific base station and the terminal, wherein the base station apparatus is movable relative to the specific base station, and when the terminal has moved relative to the specific base station, the base station apparatus moves relative to the specific base station substantially in the same direction as a move direction of the terminal.

Regarding claim 20, Zicker discloses base station apparatus is installed in transporting means for transporting a user of a terminal (the base stations are located on an aircraft 20, see figure 2 and col. 4 line 49 to col. 5 line 5).

Regarding claim 21, Zicker discloses the specific base station is fixedly provided on the ground (the land station 24 or ground station 36 are fixed on the ground, see figure 1).

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 2-9, 13-19, 25-28, 30-33 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
